

Legislature Will Get Broad 'Home Rule' Bid From Ave

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Harriman will ask the 1958 Legislature to surrender to towns and villages much of the power it holds over their governmental affairs, it was learned today.

The Democratic governor's annual message next Wednesday also will propose to set up a special unit in the state government to help fast growing suburban areas deal with mutual problems.

Other Proposals
In addition, Harriman will renew a variety of previous proposals for governmental reforms. He will call for:

1. Statewide primary elections for choosing candidates for state-wide offices, including the governorship, instead of the present convention system.
2. Extension of the vote to 18-year-olds.
3. Prompt reapportionment of the state Senate and a long-range study leading to reapportionment of the Assembly.
4. Some system that will permit voters to initiate proposals for amending the state constitution.

As an extension of the last point, Harriman will urge a similar plan that would allow county residents to initiate changes in their county governmental structure.

The governor will observe in his message that a proposed constitutional amendment granting broad "home - rule" powers to counties will appear on the ballot in November.

He will tell the Republican-ruled Legislature that similar powers should be granted to "at least the larger towns" and all villages in the state.

Under the present system, local governments must obtain permission from the Legislature to make changes in their governmental structures.

Won't Specify Size
This, Harriman will observe, results in hundreds of so-called "local bills" in the Legislature each year. They cover such matters as salaries of local officials, garbage removal, and purchases of office supplies.

Harriman will advocate constitutional amendments to extend to large towns and villages the home-rule powers that cities have and that are proposed for counties. He will not specify the size of towns that should be given such powers.

He also will propose abolishing the provision that requires a vote of at least two-thirds for approval of local bills in the Legislature. He will ask for a simple majority vote, instead.

A source close to the governor said this was intended to "prevent a small group of legislators from blocking the will of local governments."

Would Expand Body
To help metropolitan-suburban areas cope with their growing pains, Harriman will propose to expand the state Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Development.

It would serve as a center of information and assistance for communities that wanted to work together on problems of planning, transportation, industrial development and related matters.

Harriman called for the statewide primary last year, but his proposal was ignored by the Legislature.

He has advocated extending the vote to 18-year-olds each year since he took office in 1955.

On the subject of reapportionment, Harriman will say that the constitution adopted in 1894 clearly intended to put the Senate on a direct population basis but that the principle has been distorted by subsequent reapportionments.

He will argue that some Senate districts in New York City and in Nassau and Erie counties are badly under-represented, having more than 2½ times the number of residents as some others in the state.

The governor also will report on what he calls dramatic results from experimental programs designed to raise the earning power of handicapped and impoverished workers. He will say that pilot programs in Amsterdam, Corning, Glens Falls and White Plains trained 325 low-income workers in special skills needed in their communities—welders, draftsmen, machinists and stenographers.

Old Problems to Confront New Session of Congress

Span Issue Going to State Body Sites Committee To Study Request

Petitions presented to Governor Averell Harriman Friday on preserving Perrine's Bridge at Rifton will be turned over to the state committee on historic sites.

That's what the governor told members of Troop 4, Boy Scouts from the Fair Street Reformed Church, who delivered 4,045 signatures to him at the state capitol.

Confer Scout Honor
During their cordial reception, the scouts conferred on Harriman the Order of the Copper Arrow, highest troop award, and made him an honorary life member.

Scouts on the trip to Albany were Thomas Klomps, Eric West, Allen Carney, Robert Eastment Jr., and Peter Dingeldy, all of whom hold the Order of the Copper Arrow; also Guy Crispell, Wayne Erickson, Augustus Bonse, James Wentto, Robert Anderson, Frank Sperling and William Brown.

In expressing his appreciation for the award and Troop 4's extensive effort in getting the 4,045 signatures pertaining to the bridge, Governor Harriman said he'd direct the petitions to the state committee on historic sites.

Opposition Explained
A telegram from Attorney Norman Keller, chairman of the Wallkill Valley Flood Control Committee, advised Harriman that residents of the area had not signed for preserving the bridge "... very much rotted with age ... and the abutments jutting into the stream form a partial dam in the stream at the time of high water, thus flooding and then holding flood waters for long periods of time over valuable river bottom lands. Citizens living in homes along the Wallkill live in constant dread of inundation."

Supervisors Will Organize Jan. 8

A special organization meeting of the board of supervisors will be held at the court house on Wednesday, Jan. 8, at 8 p. m. At that time the new board will elect a chairman for the ensuing two years and other county official appointments will be made.

Mercury Dips To Minus 24 In Upstate

ALBANY (AP)—Temperatures plunged to as low as 24 below zero in the state overnight as New Yorkers shivered in the coldest weather in a year. The bitter cold will stay at least until Sunday, the Weather Bureau said.

Meanwhile, wide areas of western New York lay under a thick covering of snow that amounted to 28 inches in spots. But the two-day onslaught appeared over.

Scattered flurries were the order for most of western, central and northern New York today, forecasters said.

Low Is Unofficial
The 24 below was recorded unofficially at Old Forge and Thendara in the Adirondacks. The lowest reported to the Weather Bureau was 8 below at Utica and Olean.

There were many colder spots, however. It was minus 17 at Stillwater Reservoir and at Boonville in the Adirondack foothills, and 15 below at Colden in Erie County. Lowville reported 16 below. Arcade, in western New York, and Barneveld, near Utica, reported 13 and 12 below, respectively.

Temperatures ranged generally around 12 below in the northern Adirondacks. It was 13 below at Clintonville, in southern Clinton County.

These lows also were reported: Massena, Watertown, Rome, Oneonta, 6 below; Plattsburgh 4 below; Syracuse 3 below; Binghamton 2 below; Glens Falls and Albany zero; Cortland one below; Rochester 3 above; Elmira 5 above; and Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, 6 above. Talks to Resume Today On U. S. Phone Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Contract talks resume at noon today in a threatened nationwide strike by 25,000 long distance telephone workers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The strike—which could have come at midnight last night—was postponed after the Communication Workers of America made a counter-proposal to the company. Negotiations recessed early today.

Seek Higher Wages
Long lines workers in 42 states and the District of Columbia have voted to strike for higher wages and to block management's demands for a no-strike clause.

The union's counter-proposal was not described in detail, but a company spokesman said it was a "change in position" and a "step in the right direction."

The union membership voted to strike if the negotiations broke down and the CWA national board in Washington granted permission for the walkout.

Miss Elaine T. Gleason, national director of the union's long lines division and head of the union bargaining team, said management's demand for a no-strike clause, a discontinuance of voluntary checkoff of union dues, and an increase in hours for administrative workers in 24 cities and towns had been rejected.

The union sought a one-year contract, the company 15-month terms. The old contract, which expired last midnight, was for 13 months.

Current Pay Varies
The union has demanded a $3-a-week increase for operators, who now earn from $43 to $70.50, and an increase of from $3 to $5 for maintenance workers, who earn from $43.50 to $119 a week in this area. Current wages vary in different areas of the country.

About 40 per cent of union membership is composed of operators. Others are maintenance, accounting and commercial employees.

Should a strike come, the company said it would attempt to continue service by using supervisory personnel.

Firms Will Make Plans on Monday For B-E Day Here

All firms taking part in the forthcoming Business-Education Day, sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, will meet at 607 Broadway, Monday at 7:30 p. m., to make final plans. John J. Bennett, chairman of the Chamber's B-E Day Committee, will preside.

The number of teachers to be allocated to each participant will be decided and program details will be discussed at the meeting in the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co.

In some cases groups of teachers will be entertained all day while in other instances they will visit one business in the forenoon and another in the afternoon. In all cases the group will be entertained at lunch as guests of the cooperating firm.

"The B-E Day program," Chairman Bennett said "is an important public relations activity. It recognizes our teachers as one of the most important groups in our society, brings about an acquaintance between businessmen and teachers and informs them about the problems as well as opportunities of local business so important to our economy."

On January 24, B-E Day, 40 local businesses and industries will cooperate and entertain over 250 Kingston teachers.

Sputniks Will Be Influence

Ike Will Deliver Message Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP)—A returning Congress will begin grappling on Tuesday with problems which have loomed menacingly since it adjourned last summer.

Russia's Sputniks, with their grave implication of breakthroughs in the science of rocket and missile warfare, are certain to influence greatly the course of the 1958 session.

What the United States must do—and how much it can afford to pay—to match the Soviet scientific strides will be the No. 1 topic on Capitol Hill.

Ike's Message Thursday

President Eisenhower will deliver a 30-minute State of the Union message to a joint session of the House and Senate on Thursday. It will deal primarily with the condition of the nation's defenses and the improvement needed.

On Jan. 13, Eisenhower will present his budget proposals, reportedly nudging 74 billion dollars for another peacetime record, for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Administration officials say the budget will be a balanced one, perhaps just barely, with military and other defense needs expected to push domestic projects into the background.

Defense spending apparently will hover around 40 billion dollars next year, compared to a current spending level of 38½ billion. The administration also will seek another billion dollars for defense for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

Congress will be asked to approve a four-year, billion dollar aid-to-education program stressing science and mathematics.

467 Seats at Stake

It's an election year. With seats of all 435 House members and 32 Senators at stake, political infighting is not likely to diminish. Few members are expected to give up pet domestic projects without a fight.

The pressure for hauling abreast of Russia has all but eliminated any talk of a tax cut this year, however politically desirable such a move might be.

Civil rights and presidential disability, two prime topics last session, probably will get short shrift this year.

The annual controversies over foreign aid and farm legislation are anticipated, with new arguments for and against the soil bank and new cries for the scalp of Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Attention on Others

Higher postal rates, more pay for government workers, Alaskan and Hawaiian statehood, and reciprocal trade legislation all are expected to come in for more than casual attention, despite the emphasis on security.

Most of the investigative limelight will continue to fall on military matters, with the Senate rackets probe running second. Last year's hearings already have brought heavy pressure for more governmental regulation to prevent the types of abuses uncovered in the labor-management investigation.

Drug Stores Will Be Open Sunday

A proposed policy to close all drug stores in the city on Sundays, except two, will not go into effect tomorrow it was learned today.

Kenneth MacCollam of Dedrick's Drug Store, 308 Wall Street, chairman of the committee on Sunday closing for the Ulster County Pharmaceutical Society, said one firm's attitude, means another meeting is necessary to discuss the matter.

The original proposal was to close all but two drug stores, one uptown and one downtown, Sunday, Jan. 5.

MacCollam said today "we'll have to hold the program in abeyance until thorough discussion at a meeting to be held early next week."

Meantime, MacCollam said, the committee on Sunday closing intends to see that all drug stores adhere to the law which forbids sale of items other than drugs on Sundays.

Missile Program Given Priority by Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) predicted today that the Democratic-controlled Congress will convene next week in a mood to brook no delays in missile development.

West Camp Couple Out on Bail in Extortion Case

A West Camp man and his wife arrested Thursday on charges of attempted extortion on a Saugerties housing developer and businessman were released on bail late Friday afternoon in Newburgh.

Francisco Anthony Ferracane, 27, of West Camp and his wife, Betty Lou, 22, were arrested on the complaint of Austin T. Simmons, Saugerties housing developer and operator of Simmons Dairy, Partition Street, Saugerties.

Adjourned to Jan. 7

The couple were arraigned late Thursday before Newburgh City Judge Anthony Favino and the case adjourned until Tuesday, Jan. 7. He set bail at $1,000 for Ferracane and $500 for his wife.

The arrest was made by Cpl. Edward Shannon of Kingston BCI, Sgt. Linn Baker of Highland BCI, Lt. Homer Masland of Newburgh Police Department, and a member of Newburgh BCI.

Threat Alleged

According to Cpl. Shannon, Ferracane and his wife, a former bookkeeper and secretary at the Simmons Dairy, allegedly threatened Simmons by indicating that they would give damaging testimony in a pending legal proceeding involving Simmons unless he delivered to them a free and clear deed to a $17,500 house. The house involved is located in the Simmons development at Hilton Place, Saugerties.

Cpl. Shannon said Ferracane had picked up a deed and satisfaction of mortgage delivered by Simmons at the offices of Cascedy & Northrup, attorneys of Newburgh National Bank. After Ferracane left the office with the papers he was arrested. Mrs. Ferracane was later arrested in a parked car where she had been waiting for her husband.

Rosenblum and Lamb of Saugerties and N. LeVan Haver of Kingston are representing Simmons.

Indict Beacon Man In Robbery Death

POUGHKEEPSIE (AP)—John Breslin, 22, of nearby Beacon, was indicted yesterday by the Dutchess County grand jury in the robbery slaying of a 67-year-old night watchman.

Breslin was charged in the death of Howard Picard, a watchman at the Atlas Fibers Co. plant at Beacon, Dec. 7. He will be arraigned in Dutchess County court Tuesday.

He was indicted on three counts of grand larceny, robbery and first degree murder.

Opera Star Apologizes To Gronchi

ROME (AP)—Replacement for Maria Meneghini Callas prepared to sing a repeat opening night of the opera "Norma" tonight after Miss Callas apologized to Italy's president for quitting in the middle of her performance Thursday.

The opera management summoned soprano Anita Cerquetti to sing the lead. Officials said Miss Cerquetti, born 26 years ago in Perugia, Italy, has sung "Norma" in Naples' San Carlo Opera.

Tickets from Thursday will be honored again tonight, the management has announced.

May Turn Over Role

Opera officials indicated they might turn over Miss Callas' role on Monday to Lucille Udovick, 31-year-old singer from San Francisco. Miss Udovick was called in today to rehearse "Norma."

Miss Callas' physician, Dr. Umberto De Martini said he thought the diva could sing by Monday. He added that Miss Callas' temperature, which was 102 the night of her walkout, was down to normal.

"However, she still has some bronchitis" and her voice is still raspy," he said.

A tempest continued to rage in this opera-loving nation after Miss Callas sent her letter of apology last night to President Giovanni Gronchi.

Gronchi cooled his heels nearly an hour Thursday night with 3,000 other customers after the first act curtain rang down on Bellini's "Norma." The management finally announced the show would not go on after Miss Callas tearfully told officials she had lost her voice.

Voice or Temper

The tempest was over the question, did she lose her voice or her temper?

Miss Callas' husband, Milan millionaire Giovanni Battista Meneghini, said earlier it was not necessary for his wife to apologize to the President, but she apparently changed her mind.

While the American-born prima donna kept to her bed with what her doctor described as bronchitis and laryngitis, music lovers peppered her with criticism.

Lost School Post Because Of Politics, Mayor Says

OSWEGO (AP)—Mayor Vincent A. Corsall says politics motivated the Board of Education to dismiss him as a high school teacher.

The board dismissed him Thursday on the basis of a legal opinion of the State Education Department. The department held that there would be a conflict between Corsall's duties as an employee of the school board and those of the mayor who appoints the board members.

He was inaugurated as mayor Wednesday.

Corsall plans a legal fight to regain his teaching job, which he termed "my first love."

The mayor is a Democrat who was elected on the Liberal Party ticket. The Board of Education is comprised of four Republicans and one Democrat. The Democratic member ran against Corsall in the November mayoral election.

The mayor pledged in his campaign to work for an elective school board. He said the appointive system amounted to "taxation without representation."

He charged last night that the "political make-up" of the board had led to his dismissal.

He commented as his backers circulated petitions designed to force the school board to restore him to his teaching job.

The former physics-teacher at Oswego High School said his former pupils were the chief victims of the controversy.

Pointing out that examinations for regents scholarships will be held in 11 days, he said:

"The students are in the middle of this thing. They are the ones who are suffering the most. I should be there to carry them through."

He said that he had volunteered to serve without pay to continue preparing his pupils for the examinations but that the offer had been rejected.

State law requires that Corsall be given a hearing on the dismissal. It will be held Jan. 28. The mayor said he would argue that the Education Department opinion lacked force of law.

Corsall, a 38-year-old bachelor, said he would take the fight to the courts if the board did not reinstate him.

The part-time job of mayor pays about $500 a year less than the teacher's post.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL
THRESHOLDS

Last fall the carpenter ripped out the old worn threshold at our front door and installed a new one. A few days later I painted it. While in the process of giving it a coat of paint I myself philosophized about thresholds.

A threshold is more than just a piece of lumber. It is the portal to a home. On one side of it are the love and fellowship of the family; on the other yawns the big world. That board we call a threshold separates those two; and no one could possibly overemphasize the importance of that separation. When the going on the outside is tough, and nerves get shattered, we need a place where we can get away from it all to regain our courage, revive our strength, and recapture our prospective. The threshold provides for that citadel of recovery.

There is mystery in a threshold. No one can tell who, out there in that big world, may greet us at that portal today—perhaps for the very first time. It may be some stranger who will cross that mystic board to become a life-long friend. Or perhaps some good news will be brought by a messenger; some surprise of good fortune. Possibly some token of a heart's thoughtfulness may come over that strategic piece of lumber today.

What wonders of loveliness and encouragement manage to emerge from the big world and trip across the thresholds of homes. In troubled times such as ours it is important to remember that the big world is not all treachery, strife and burden. Nestled in the mystic unknown are also love and kindness; and all those gracious surprises which make the hearts flame glow with a new light. Mysteries are not always peopled with the unwanted. Unspeakable joys and delights also await unheeded out of the mystic unknown.

It is true, of course, that bad news may break at that threshold today. God knows that sometimes we hate to see the postman or the messenger boy come. Even our best friend may bear the saddest news—for usually the worst news is entrusted to our closest friends to impart. Someway, in the providence of God, the shock is lessened a little if the saddest of messages is borne by the dearest of friends. We are not always prepared for the mysteries of the threshold. Sometimes its joys all but overwhelm us; sometimes its sadnesses all but tear the heart out of us.

We are now living behind a new threshold. I suppose the old one, which the carpenter tore up that fall morning, has long since vanished in flame. If it only could have talked, we would have saved it. For what tales about the ups and downs of life it could have told.

Nation's Nazarene Churches to Fete 50th Anniversary

In the local Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf Street and Wiltwyck and in 45,000 other Nazarene churches in the United States and around the world, special hymns, testimonies and sermons of praise will be offered at simultaneous worship services Sunday opening the denomination's golden anniversary year.

Thanksgiving to God will be offered by Nazarenes everywhere for the amazing progress of the past 50 years.

Started in Texas

Since the Nazarene church started at a union service in a small tent at Pilot Point, Texas, October 13, 1908, it has literally girdled the world with its message and slogan, "Holiness Unto the Lord." It has become one of the fastest growing Protestant churches in the world.

Among U. S. Protestant denominations, Nazarenes now start 30th in membership, 15th in Sunday school enrollment and ninth in publishing house business.

The story of its growth is graphically told as follows: Membership has increased about 30 times—from 10,000 to nearly 300,000 in 50 years.

Sunday school enrollment has increased nearly 100 times, from about 7,000 to 632,000.

Per capita giving has increased 10 times, from $13.44 to $133.77.

The value of all church property has increased about 340 times, from $560,000 to $169,705,000.

These figures include the 1957 calendar year.

Hillary, Party Have First Hot Meal at Pole

U. S. SOUTH POLE STATION (AP)—Sir Edmund Hillary and his band of New Zealanders feasted on Navy beans and hot dogs today after completing their trek to the South Pole over 1,200 miles of snow and ice.

The 38-year-old conqueror of Mt. Everest pulled into the American scientific station today after camping in sight of it last night with tractor gasoline left for only 20 more miles.

The give-man band was the first to make it overland from the coast in 46 years. Later trips to the pole, including the ones that set up the 17-man station here, have been by air.

Navy Lt. Vernon Houk, military commander of the station, and scientific leader Pallo Mogensen went out to meet Hillary in a snow tractor. "Glad to be here," the rangy New Zealand beekeeper told them.

The Americans led the New Zealand caravan of three tractors two miles to the spot which U. S. scientists compute as the geographic bottom of the world. It is encircled by oil drums.

The group stopped to look at it, but Hillary did not step inside the circle. Then they went to the station mess hall for their first hot meal in several days.

The four New Zealanders who accompanied Hillary are Murra Ellis, Peter Mulgrew, Jim Bates and Derek Wright. Their party made a forced march of 70 miles in 24 hours to arrive in sight of the U. S. base.

Scott base is named for the leader of the last expedition to reach the pole overland—British Navy Capt. Robert F. Scott. He reached the pole Jan. 18, 1912, but died on the way out, leaving Norway's Roald Amundsen as the only explorer to complete a successful overland expedition to the pole and back. Amundsen, who was in a race with Scott, reached here Dec. 14, 1911.

Firemen Called By Three Alarms

Firemen were called out twice Friday night and once this morning, but none of their trips were of a serious nature.

At 10:45 p. m. Friday a grass fire along the West Shore Railroad tracks near Smith Avenue was extinguished in eight minutes by members of Central Station engine No. 1. They used Indian pumps.

Cornell Engine No. 2 was summoned to President's Place last night at 11:12 to what was thought to be a car fire, but it was only a defective radiator hose steaming on the 1956 auto of Margaret M. Durkin of 67 Wurts Street.

Apparatus from Wiltwyck, Central and Cornell stations and Wicks Engine and Truck Company went to the A&P store on Prince Street today at 9:48 a. m., where firemen found an oil burner out of adjustment, it was reported. No damage was reported, only smoke in the cellar.

Million Dollar Fire

BERWICK, Pa. (AP)—A general alarm fire swept through a block of buildings in downtown Berwick today. One man died in a leap from a third-story window and another man was missing.

The blaze raged out of control for nearly three hours before firemen, struggling against sub-freezing temperatures, brought the fire under control. The damage was estimated unofficially at more than a million dollars.

The blaze is believed to have started in the bar section of the Morton House, a hotel.

The victim of the fatal leap was identified as Harry Brown, 61, an employee at the American Car & Foundry plant here.

Twenty-three governors have occupied the Executive Chamber in the New York State Capitol.

Caracas Appears Calm

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Marcos Perez Jimenez planned to hold his traditional New Year's diplomatic reception today. It had been scheduled for Jan. 1 but a short-lived insurrection kept both the President and diplomats too busy.

Caracas appeared calm. Rebel activity by some Air Force and Army units was reported finished throughout the country.

Diplomatic sources said the insurrection was stamped out quickly because the government had advance word. Authorities began rounding up suspects New Year's Eve, reportedly forcing the insurgents to make their bid before they were ready.

Plane Is in Italy

BRINDISI, Italy (AP)—A British cargo airliner that was forced down in Albania on New Year's Eve by Red fighters landed today at Brindisi Airfield.

A spokesman at the airfield said the plane landed safely and the six-member crew, including a 22-year-old stewardess, were well.

The plane's owners said yesterday the four-engine plane would return to Britain after its release from Albania, a Communist satellite nation just across the mouth of the Adriatic Sea from Brindisi.

Split Over Merger

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—The infant federation of the British West Indies faced an internal economic squabble today as it began its march toward independence.

List Pneumonia In Death of Area Man Found Friday

An autopsy report issued today by Coroner Michael A. Galletta on a Samsonville man found dead in his home Friday morning indicated the cause of death due to massive right bronchial pneumonia.

Harry Ruthjensen, 53, a native of Norway, was found Friday at 8:30 a. m. by a neighbor, Harry Johnson.

According to Coroner Galletta, Ruthjensen, a house painter who lived alone, probably died about 3 a. m. Friday. A naturalized citizen, he was a veteran of World War 2 and was survived by a sister residing in Brooklyn.

The funeral will be held at Edward C. Halverson Funeral Home, Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, Monday. Burial will be in Oceanview Cemetery, Staten Island.

'A' Sub Tests Seen

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Soviet Fleet indicated today the Russians may be testing atomic submarines.

In a review of a booklet on submarines, the navy newspaper discussed the advantages and disadvantages of atomic submarines "as discovered by testing." It added:

"There is no doubt that if necessary for the defense of our motherland our country can match the atomic techniques of the aggressors with even mightier Soviet atomic techniques."

The Swedish Naval Yearbook, issued yesterday, said the Soviet Union probably already has three atomic subs. The yearbook said that two may be in the Baltic Sea and a third in the Far East. It gave no details.

Says Reds Have Headaches With 'Moon' Launching

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vanguard Chief John P. Hagen said today the Russians probably have run into difficulties trying to shoot a new Sputnik into orbit around the earth.

At the same time, Dr. Hagen cautioned that the next attempted launching of a Vanguard rocket still may not result in placing a U. S. satellite in space.

If the American baby moon does stay up, he said, it will be mainly as a byproduct of a test firing of the complete three-stage rocket planned for use in firing aloft a fully-instrumented satellite next March.

Hagen commented in a written reply to questions submitted by the Associated Press as belief spread that Russia's half-ton Sputnik II, launched Nov. 3, is now or soon will be the only man-made satellite aloft.

Soviet Premier Bulganin said in Moscow last night that Sputnik I, launched Oct. 4, will burn out tomorrow or Monday, if not before. "For all I know it may have burned out already," he told reporters.

At Cambridge, Mass., the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said last night it had no word on the fate of Sputnik I, although officials there had predicted the 184-pound sphere would plunge to a flaming end in the earth's atmosphere on or about Thursday of this week.

Boy Changes Story On Mother's Death

BAYONNE, N. J. (AP)—Police say Robert Gaydos, 15, has alternately denied, confessed, denied and confessed again that he killed his mother.

The boy and his father both were held today as police tried to unravel the slaying of Mrs. Mary Gaydos, 36.

Capt. James Whelan, chief of detectives, quoted Robert as saying in the latest confession last night that he strangled her during an argument over his dating a girl.

The youth, known as Bobby, is a student at Technical High School and played the drums and accordion in a small jazz band. He was charged with juvenile delinquency, the only charge permissible because of his age.

Police said Bobby's father, Stephen Gaydos, 43, had been implicated by the boy earlier and is still held on an open charge for further questioning. Gaydos, an unemployed laborer, had been estranged from his wife for two years.

The body of Mrs. Gaydos was found early yesterday in a park near the edge of

PARADOXICAL AMERICAN WAY

America is a land fabled throughout the world for its wealth and its high living standards. But amid the riches and the plenty are some strange contradictions and contrasts.

We're not talking about slums, or the destitute.

The real oddity as we spin along in the last half of the 20th century is that there should be so many Americans of reasonably good economic circumstance who seem to be priced out of so many important markets.

A good many independent studies, including some of recent vintage, indicate that people of the middle income level do not have an easy time finding new housing within their means. Too often for comfort they must go heavily on the cuff to get the kind of living accommodations they need.

For the past two or three years a lot of automobile dealers have complained that something similar seems to be happening in the motor car field. Many of their potential customers figure they just can't undertake the financial burdens involved.

Even persons of better than average means tend to blanch when told they face an extended hospital stay, whether or not they have some form of hospitalization insurance. The charges are heavy.

The Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N. J., says now that some 150,000 above-average U.S. high school students don't go to college because they can't get the needed financial support.

Schooling, housing, medical care, transportation, these are basic fields. No American should have to regard any one of them as a luxury he can't afford.

Most who take note of these facts are simply commenting on a curious contradiction. They are not placing blame anywhere. Everyone is aware of the tremendous post-war rise in costs which has helped to push prices in many fields to sometimes forbidding heights.

A seasoned Washington observer, fingering the plush furniture in a richly-appointed new government office some years ago, said: "My friend, government is a very luxurious operation in this country."

Perhaps we ought to have some new formulas for bringing incomes and needs into closer alignment. Otherwise somebody one day may say that living in the United States is a very luxurious operation, beyond the means of millions.

POLIO'S STILL HERE

Suppose that someone discovered a highly effective vaccine for prevention of cancer. Suppose the word went out, from the most respected medical sources, that mass inoculation would virtually wipe out cancer in this country. Does it follow that everyone would hustle down to be inoculated and thus give the death blow to this terrible disease? It does not follow at all, if the nation's experience with the Salk vaccine is any criterion.

When this vaccine was perfected by Dr. Jonas Salk, the nation was told that the means of virtually wiping out polio were now at hand. Millions of Americans, mostly children, were inoculated. The result was a tremendous drop in the incidence of polio. There is excellent reason to believe that, with something approaching universal inoculation, the dread cripple's fangs would be drawn.

The trouble is that millions of Americans have not been inoculated. Many have not even received a first shot, and great numbers who did get that first shot have not gone in for the two additional shots that bring virtual immunity.

This is an odd, and potentially tragic, situation. Poliomyelitis is one of the most highly publicized of all diseases. Fear of it is great. Yet now that we have in our grasp, the means of stopping polio we are not using this weapon against it.

The weapon of the Salk vaccine is effective only if it is used. If, out of indifference, we leave the vaccine on the shelves

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
CRIME AND MORALS

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI, year by year issues a report on crime in the United States, and one year is worse than the other. The year 1957 shows the usual increase; in fact it is the all-time high year for crime, 2,756,000 major crimes having been committed. The largest increases reported are in what are called "crimes against property," namely, robbery, burglary, larceny and auto thefts. This is an inaccurate designation because not property but persons are robbed. The loss, the heart-ache, the inconveniences involve people not property.

Crimes "against property" are normal in conditions of poverty such as do not exist in the United States where it is still possible, even in a period of economic readjustment, to earn a living wage if one will work. The crimes are not committed out of desperation. Most criminal activities in the United States are wilful; youngsters form gangs to go robbing, to steal automobiles, to be big shots before they are even little shots.

Crime in the United States, is a reflex to immorality just as our sex problems are reflexes to immorality, to an abandonment of the basic moral and ethical standards of our society. This is a big problem that is variously answered. Some liberal sociologists would solve it all by improving environmental conditions, but it has been established by police records in New York that gangs develop in the new housing projects despite the improved environmental conditions. In a word, experience in new housing developments in a city like New York shows the mere physical improvement of an environment will not make for righteous living if the home life is inadequate, if moral values are not inculcated in the young in the home, the school and the church. Palaces without morals will not produce moral persons.

The juvenile gang, our main source of criminal training, is on the increase and includes girls as well as boys. Robberies and auto-thefts in time lead to murder, but the most shocking increase in crime is crimes against parents, including the killing of parents in fits of anger. A boy is now in the hands of the police for having shot and killed his mother because she objected to his tying up the telephone by calls to his girl.

The brutality of this act has attracted no unusual attention. I have noted no such excitement as when Harry Thaw, a millionaire, shot Stanford White, an architect, over Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, a young lady who once earned her way by jumping out of a pie in the nude. It is not the times that have changed; it is that we have grown callous. We accept outrages against society as more or less normal because our standards have been debased.

In J. Edgar Hoover's report, it is stated that kidnapping convictions have increased by 20 per cent and that over 16,000 stolen automobiles moved across state lines were located by the FBI. It is as important to think about what we should do to straighten out these boys and girls who live by crime, undoubtedly because they enjoy living that way, as it is to produce more engineers and scientists.

Hoover praises the citizen who acts as an informant. He said:

"Through the efforts of FBI informants it has been possible not only to penetrate vast subversive conspiracies against the entire country but also to afford better protection to the lives and property of individual citizens."

"Information furnished our Agents by confidential informants resulted in well over 1,400 arrests in FBI cases during 1957. Other data received from our informants and passed on to the authorities concerned were responsible for nearly 1,500 arrests by other law enforcement agencies. In addition, as a direct result of their services, more than $1,700,000 in stolen and contraband merchandise and valuables was recovered."

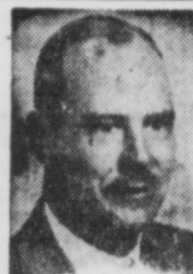

Citizens would do more to protect society were it not that they are pilloried in courts by shyster lawyers. It used to be, when I lived in China, that if a person saw another being murdered, he ran away, not because he feared the murderer but because he feared the police and the judges who, seeking a solution for a crime, might seize upon anyone to establish guilt. It is not quite as bad as that here. But being a voluntary witness, giving law-abiding information, leads to so much inconvenience that many shun such activities.

Gradual, Gentle Thawing Is Best First Aid for Frostbite

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

In extremely cold weather the blood vessels near the surface of the body contract. This is nature's defense against too much coolness; it helps to prevent large quantities of blood coming in contact with the cold and chilling the entire blood stream.

There are difficulties, however, connected with this process since if the cold contact with the skin is continued, it may lead to frostbite. This has always been a terrible problem for Arctic explorers, mountain climbers, and for members of the military forces.

In ordinary civilian life it is less often a problem, though in northern sections, every winter brings its toll of frostbite victims.

THE TIP OF the nose, the ears, the fingers and the toes are particularly susceptible to frostbite. Frostbite may come on slowly or suddenly, the latter especially if the wind is high. Often a stinging feeling is present at first in the exposed part, followed by a pleasant numbness usually without any pain.

When the white frosted area begins to thaw, swelling develops and the skin becomes pink. In severe cases, red or purple blisters filled with serum or blood may appear.

After the frozen part has thawed it may remain cold and lack feeling, later becoming swollen and purple. Death of the tissues may set in and the involved part separate from the rest of the body.

IF FROSTBITE does develop, thawing should be gradual in cool air or cold water. The practice of trying to rub snow over the frostbitten part is considered dangerous. Nothing warmer than the heat of the body should ever be tried, and a person who has been recently frostbitten should not go near a fire or into a fully heated room until the circulation has been thoroughly restored.

After thawing, the skin is not yet strong and there is special danger of causing infection by rubbing.

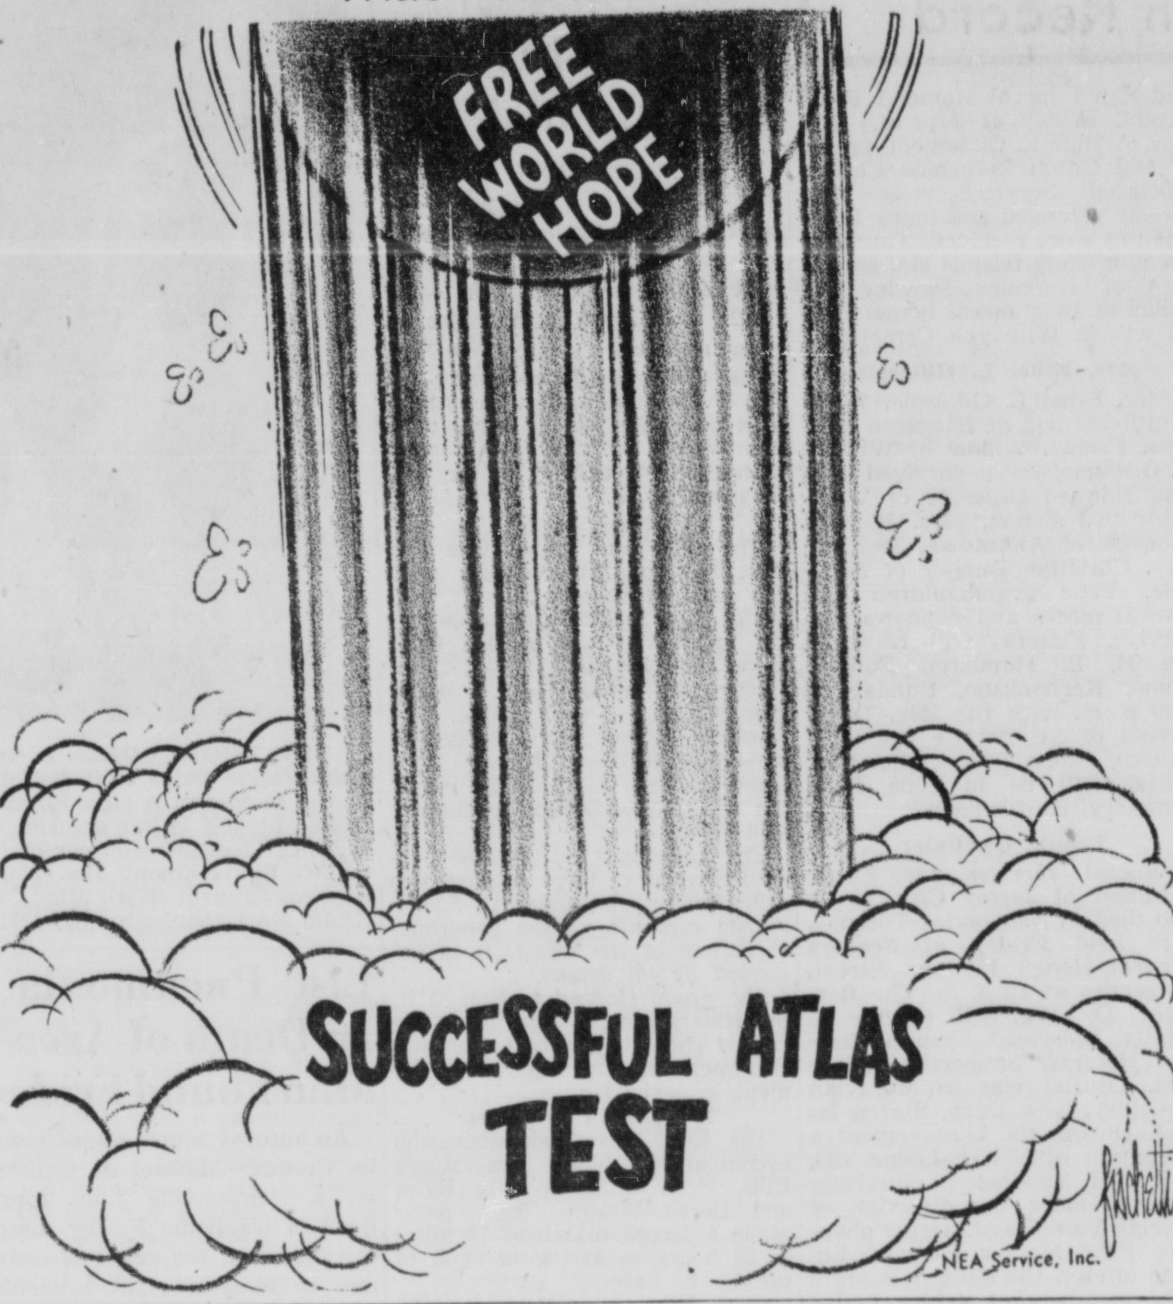

Some excellent results in treating acute frostbite with substances delaying blood coagulation have been reported. This, however, is a professional rather than a self-treatment measure.

When at all possible, it is best to avoid frostbite. If it does occur one should be careful to follow good principles of thawing to avoid unnecessary permanent injury to the frozen tissues.

and thus do not use the weapon, we are sealing the doom of some fellow citizens—perhaps even of ourselves. Another polio season is approaching. Will we be ready—as ready as we can be—for it?

A trend toward larger families is believed to be due to the fact that people are marrying younger. Additional tax exemptions may also have something to do with it.

Much Needed Litt

Washington News

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—If President Eisenhower comes up with a recommended balanced budget for next year he's in for some trouble with both the Republicans and Democrats in Congress this session.

The White House has already said it will ask for an extra billion dollars for this year to spur ballistic missile work. It's reported that an additional two billion dollars for more missile development will be included in the 1959 fiscal year money requests. A request is likely to be made for a boost in foreign aid spending. And a big sum will be asked for aid to education.

This will necessarily mean that some domestic government programs will have to be cut if there is to be a balanced budget, which is the prospect that Congress does not like to face.

A DEMOCRATIC congressman sees it like this:

"If the President sends up a balanced budget it'll be a political maneuver. He'll assume that Congress will not make the cuts on domestic programs which he must recommend. But he'll be able to blame Democrat control of the two houses for putting the government in the red."

Republican congressmen don't take kindly to the possibility of Ike sending up a balanced budget, either. Relations between the GOP legislators and the White House deteriorated through most of the last session.

The feeling of a lot of Republicans last session was that they had poor communications with the White House and that a lack of administration leadership hampered their work in Congress. Many GOP legislators, returning to town from long visits to their home states, report sharp and unfavorable public reaction to the administration from the launchings of the Russian Sputniks.

A REPUBLICAN congressman, anticipating a recommended balanced budget, puts it this way: "Having to support administration cuts in veterans benefits, the farm program or any other domestic programs is just to saddle us with an additional handicap when we go to the voters next November."

It is reliably reported that the White House will want something from the five billion dollar veterans' budget. Veterans' lobbyists may have slipped in importance in Washington.

But recommended cuts in widows' pensions, disability payments or veterans hospital care is all they need as a rallying cry to regain their old power.

The Republicans have had chronic trouble with the farmers and any recommended cuts in America's agricultural programs will just make it more politically hazardous for GOP farm-belt solons.

When you get into the rest of the federal programs they're so small by comparison, savings in them are hardly worth fooling with.

THE DANGERS in the approaching session are the veiled threats of both Democrats and Republicans to "get even" with the White House for attempting to achieve a balanced budget.

This could result in all sorts of politics and maneuvering, beyond what usually goes on during an election year.

Recommending an increase in taxes is one solution to speeding up the missile program and keeping a balanced budget. But Congress isn't enthusiastic about this one, either.

Simply agreeing to get into deficit spending to speed up the missile program would be an easy way out for the President. But it's reported that he is adamant about trying to maintain a balanced budget and still believes it can be achieved.

It is said that this is what he meant when he told the public it had to "roll up its sleeves" after his return from Paris.

Health for All

Rx for Fatigue

You're all worn out from the holidays? You think a good rest is what you need? Stop. Don't flop on that couch. Get out and take a brisk walk around the block.

Sound crazy? It's not. More and more doctors are prescribing exercise for fatigue. For a long time they used to treat fatigue by having the patient cut out some activity, no matter how little he was doing. If he did nothing more than sit in a rocking chair all day, the doctor told him to stop rocking and lie down.

That's all changed today. Doctors have found that fatigue as often as not is caused by lack of activity. They call it "atrophy of disuse." Young people usually avoid this condition and keep in good shape by taking parts in sports. But as we grow older we tend to give up more and more physical activity. So we suffer from fatigue which makes us think we should give up more activity. Caught in this vicious circle, we can become old and worn out before our time.

We can blame part of the trouble on labor saving devices our ancestors didn't have. The electric golfmobile, for example, may be fine for heart cases and similar problems, making it possible for the semi-invalid to get some exercise. But for the average man it can destroy most of the health-giving value of his day on the golf course. He'll feel tired if he does eighteen holes on his own two feet.

So if you feel exhausted after a hard day of sitting behind a desk or loading your automatic washer, exercise may be the prescription for you. But remember, it should be fun, not drudgery.

Monument Placed at Albany Cemetery Honoring Local Physician and War Hero

A monument commemorating the memory of a Civil War hero who practiced medicine in Kingston has been erected on the family plot in Albany.

Nicholas Bogart Van Rensselaer, 78, well-known New Paltz taxidermist and former insurance agent, arranged for the cutting and engraving of the stone placed at the grave of his father, Col. Walter Alexander Van Rensselaer, a hero of the Battle of Gettysburg and noted physician of Kingston.

The inscription on the stone was taken from a tribute to him published in The Kingston Journal November 20, 1879 at the time of his death.

The epitaph reads: "Idol of his command, chosen comrade of his peers, and pet of his superiors."

The memorial, a stone approximately five feet square is located at the Van Rensselaer plot of Albany Rural Cemetery on the Menands Road about two miles north of Albany.

According to family records furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer of New Paltz, Col. Van Rensselaer was wounded three times during the Battle of Gettysburg and finally died in 1879 from the effects of a bullet which had lodged in his throat.

A member of a distinguished military family, many of Col. Van Rensselaer's ancestors had served as officers in previous wars on this continent. Three of his great, great-grandfathers, General Kilian Van Rensselaer, Col. Peter Schuyler and Col. Robert Sanders participated in the Inter-Colonial Wars of 1689-1763. His two great-grandfathers, Col. Philip Van Rensselaer and Col. Harmanus Schuyler and his great, great uncle, General Henry K. Van Rensselaer fought in the Revolutionary War.

Col. Philip Van Rensselaer served as commissary-general in the army of the north commanded by his cousin, Gen. Philip Schuyler. His great uncle, General Solomon Van Rensselaer and his cousin, Gen. Stephen Van Rensselaer served in the War of 1812.

The Albany Rural Cemetery was once a part of the 870,000 acre manor of Rensselaerwyck. Kilian Van Rensselaer of Holland in 1630 purchased lands from the Indians embracing what is now known as Albany and Rensselaer Counties. He later purchased lands known now as Columbia County and was an absentee owner.

Jeremias Van Rensselaer, the founder of the Van Rensselaer family, came to America in 1642.

Reflecting on the past, Mr. Van Rensselaer of New Paltz says it is appropriate that his father rests in ground owned by the family in 1630.

The family plot is now the property of Mr. Van Rensselaer and his sister, Mrs. Julia Phelps V. R. Crowell of Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer who reside at 26 North Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz have made arrangements (eventual burial) in the plot with Mr. Van Rensselaer's illustrious ancestors.

Approximately eight years ago a memento case was placed in the vestibule of Kingston's City Hall honoring the memory of Col. Van Rensselaer.

The case contains a photograph of the colonel and a rebel battle flag captured July 3, 1863 by the colonel during the Civil War.

EVENING VISITING

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it out of place to call on strangers (friends of out-of-town friends of ours) in the evening? They have lately moved to this community and we'd like to have them meet some of our friends here. But first my husband and I would both like to meet them and know them a little better than hearsay, and evening seems to be the only convenient time for us to go together.

Answer: Evenings are so generally devoted to informal family life or engagements with friends that an unexpected visit from strangers may prove embarrassing to both of you. So at least telephone in advance to make sure that your coming is convenient and, if not, give them an opportunity to set an evening that is.

How Much Is Too Much?

Dear Mrs. Post: I've just spent a considerable sum on a matching set of costume jewelry consisting of necklace, earrings, and bracelet. My husband says it's too much to wear at one time. Why in the world do they sell sets if these pieces can't be worn together?

Answer: The advantage of a complete set is that you can wear one, two or three pieces, depending on your clothes, the occasion, and of course the jewelry itself. Even one piece can be too much if worn at the wrong time. As is generally the case if a very elaborate glittery piece is worn in daytime with tailored street dress.

Engraved Name on Personal Card

Dear Mrs. Post: Why do so many people draw an ink line through the engraved name on their personal card and spoil its looks completely? For example, again today this invitation: "Will you and John come . . . Mary Snooks," and a heavy line drawn through the engraved Mrs. John Snooks.

Answer: Of course it is not good form to use the engraved name, with title, in place of a signature to a note. So it is my guess that, having written Mary Snooks, Mrs. Snooks imagined the engraved name superfluous. I agree that it would look better to leave it untouched.

To help you plan a buffet dinner, Mrs. Post includes invitation forms, table setting suggestions and a menu in her leaflet E-29, "Buffet Dinners, Lunches, and Suppers." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Kitchen Becomes Heart of House

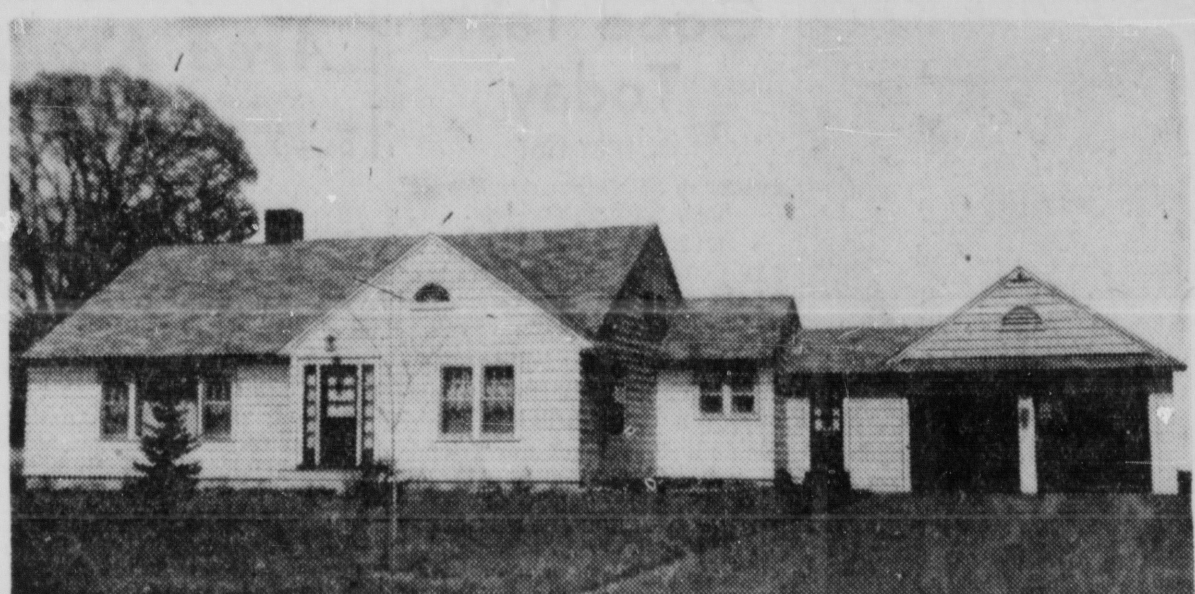

Back in 1952, House Beautiful magazine devoted almost an entire issue to reporting the news that basic changes were taking place in the kitchen. It named what was then a new, unrecognized phenomenon—"the living kitchen." It predicted that the kitchen would be rescued from its role as a dreary room in the back of the house and returned to its role as the real heart of the home.

In a recent issue, House Beautiful devotes almost an entire magazine to the contemporary kitchen, showing how its prediction of five years ago has come true—even beyond its wildest expectations.

Everything has conspired to hasten the transformation of what was, before the war, an ugly duckling into a glamorous swan. The chief reason for this has probably been the widespread growth of interest in cooking as fun. But, also coupled with people's awakening interest in cooking for pleasure is the deluge of beautiful new equipment and new materials for making one's dreams come true.

The world of kitchen manufacturers is bursting with progress, change, practicality, and excitement. Now you can do anything from a modest bit of remodeling to a $50,000 production that makes the eyes bulge.

Two-Story 'Marvin' Can Grow to Fit Family's Needs

Attractive—Modern—Has Seven Rooms

Rooms Seven
Bedrooms Four
Closets Eight
Cubage: House 23,600 ft.
Garage 6,400 ft.
Dimensions 40' x 24'

Because of its generous sized first floor in addition to the second story which can be finished at the owner's convenience, "The Marvin," offered today by the Home of the Week Plan Service, will have a special appeal for the growing family with a limited building budget.

With the house proper measuring 40'x24', "The Marvin" has overall measurements of 75'. Cubage of the house is 23,600 feet; cubage of the garage is 6,400 feet. To build the house complete with the attached garage you'll need at least a 100 foot lot.

Of a design that will always be "in style," this attractive house will be "at home" in any type of location. Clapboards or shingles are suggested for the exterior finish; painting the doors a different color than the rest of the house and installing colored roofing will add decorative appeal and brightness to the exterior.

Until such time as you have the second floor of "The Marvin" finished you'll be able to enjoy comfortable modern living on the first floor of this carefully planned, attractive home. In addition to a spacious living room, a good sized dining room, a modern kitchen and the master bedroom, the first floor contains a den or bedroom, a laundry, a bath and a generous number of centrally located closets.

On the second floor of "The Marvin" space is provided for two large bedrooms, a lavatory and four large closets, including an unusually spacious linen closet. A walk-in storage area plus storage drawers also are featured on the second story of "The Marvin."

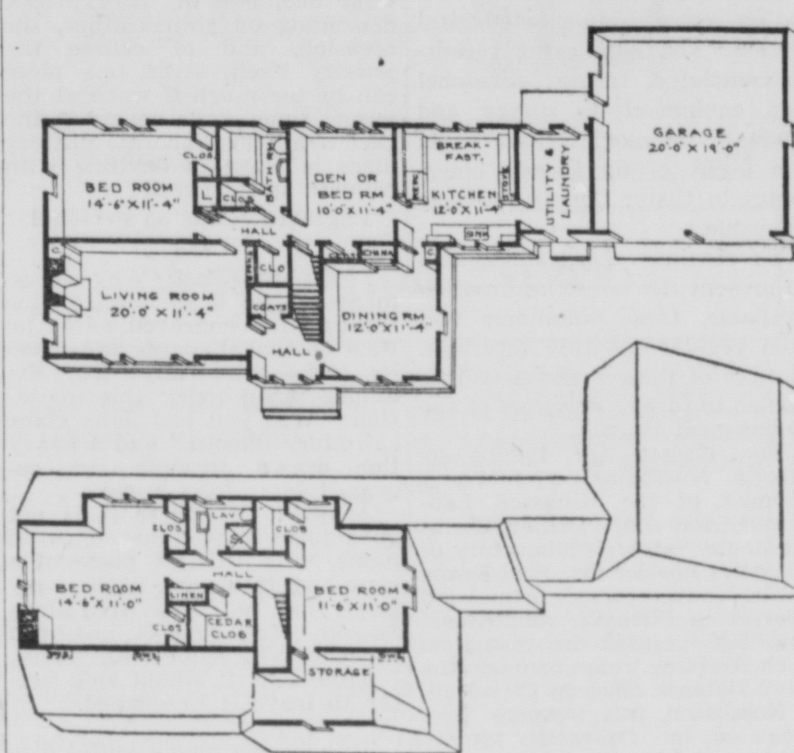

Thus, as you can readily see for yourself, storage should present no problem for the family living in "The Marvin." If you build the two car garage, as specified in the accompanying plan, but you have only one car, you can use the second half of the garage for additional storage.

With the laundry conveniently located on the first floor of "The Marvin" only the heating plant must be installed in the basement. For convenience and economy your heating equipment should be placed under the living room.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset street, Providence, R. I.

All Loose Paint Must Be Removed

Paint that is chipping or peeling must be removed before repainting. Failure to do so will cause the new paint to fail. Loose paint can be removed by using a wire brush, steel wool or coarse sandpaper. Then the surface should be smoothed with finer sandpaper, especially the edges of patch where loose paint had been removed. All bare wood surfaces exposed to the natural oil and grease in the air should be wiped with turpentine or mineral spirits.

How to Paint Walls

In painting the walls of a room, it's best to begin from the window wall and work back into the room so that the reflections on the wet paint will reveal any spots not properly coated. Begin at a break in the wall such as a corner.

Shutter Ideas For Bedrooms

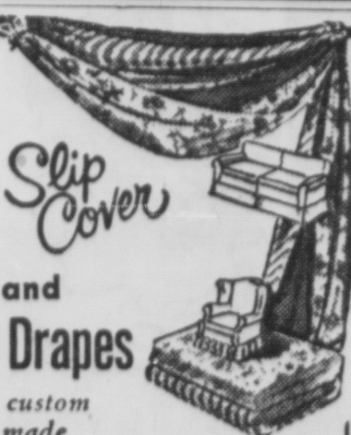

Interested in a novel, attractive, low-cost bed headboard? Here's an idea that has all those features and is in step with the current return of louver doors and shutters to smart modern interiors.

Use an ordinary stock shutter, slightly longer than the width of the bed (a double-bed mattress is 54 inches wide). Attach the shutter to the spring frame by metal braces, or by a wood framework. The shutter also can be screwed or bolted to the wall.

Stock shutters generally are made of ponderosa pine, an almost-white wood that is an excellent base for any paint or stain-and-varnish finish that you need to go with the bedroom decor.

A variation of this idea is to use a shutter as a headboard for a youth bed, and a pair of shutters for the sides, to keep the youngster from falling out. Saw the side shutters in half and hinge the sections together and to the headboard so they swing back. At night, each side is moored to the bed with a hook-and-eye.

Caulking Home Stops Heat Loss, Prevents Rotting

Caulking now can save you cash this winter.

Even if your house is only a few payments old, it's quite likely that a tour of inspection of the exterior will turn up more than a few cracks and crevices. And if yours is an older house it's a sure bet you'll find them.

Cracks and crevices at the construction joints are inevitable in every house no matter how new and well built it is. But each crack left unmended is an open invitation to moisture that causes rot, to drafts that boost heating bills, to insects seeking room and board and to dust and dirt.

Plugs Crevices

The solution is to plug up the crevices with a caulking compound, a stick-to-anything substance that you can squeeze from a special caulking gun or from a kingsize toothpaste-type metal tube. Unless you have a great many large cracks to fill, the tube of compound holds plenty for average use. It has a special beveled tip to facilitate application and a "key" to help you roll it easily and without waste.

There are two kinds of caulking jobs you may encounter.

One is preventive caulking to keep a house new by heavily coating the joints where cracks may eventually occur, thus circumventing future trouble and maintenance costs.

The second, curative caulking, is more difficult since it can involve filling large openings. Sometimes it means replacing rotted boards that earlier caulking would have saved. If an opening is large, pack first with oakum, then caulk.

Whichever kind of caulk job your house needs, you'll find it a money-saving effort well worth the few hours it will take you to do it.

Plywood Economy

Plywood comes with either one side or both sides good. If one side is not going to be exposed you can save a good deal of money by purchasing the less expensive (but just as solid) grade with only one side good.

Rubber tile is a good flooring material for use over radiant heating installations. It is an effective heat conductor, will conserve fuel and will not be damaged by the temperature of radiant heating installation.

Sees No Physical Gains From Some; Favors Swimming

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—There isn't any physical benefit in golf, bowling, volleyball or social dancing, a University of Illinois professor says.

"Muscles are not developed to a higher strength unless they are two-thirds or more overloaded or worked long and hard to the point of real stress and fatigue," Thomas K. Cureton told the College Physical Assn. yesterday.

Addressing physical education directors from colleges and universities in 44 states at the 61st annual meeting, he said:

"Easy work never improves anyone. To stay normal in weight, most sedentary people need to exercise long and hard to burn up the food they eat."

Cureton said he recommends swimming, walking uphill, rowing for endurance, long-distance cycling and cross-country skiing.

Death Halts Party

She was dead within 10 minutes and the party never started.

$2 Million Doria Checks Go Out

NEW YORK (AP)—More than two million dollars in checks, paying off the first batch of individual liability claims in the sinking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria, were mailed last night.

Chris Williamson, president of the Shipowners Claims Bureau, said the checks were only a fraction of the total still to go.

The Andrea Doria sank with a loss of 50 lives on July 25, 1956. Most of the checks mailed averaged under $2,500 each for personal injuries.

She Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A woman got a divorce yesterday after testifying:

On one occasion her husband hung her out of a seventh-story window by her arms.

Another time he locked her out of their apartment while she was wearing only pajama bottoms.

Her attorney asked Mrs. Rawleigh Marlene Shoemaker, 21, if she lost weight because of the actions of her husband, Norman, 32.

"No," she answered, "but I lost an awful lot of sleep."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Frank Waters Jr. of Oliver Farms, RFD 3, Kingston, wrote following: "Your items of local matters of long ago always interest me. In your column in the Freeman of early December this year you asked for information as to why certain streets in Kingston bear the names they do. One of those you mentioned was Cottage Row. This sort of street running from Delaware Avenue to Lawrence Street was so named by my grandfather, Judge G. W. Ludlum, in 1852, who had the two 'cottages' built there with a covered connecting passageway. He lived in those connected cottages with his family for two years while he was building a large house on the hill now Highland Avenue and owned by J. R. Shults now."

Mr. Waters further writes: "The Judge had a plaster mill across the street where the house of the late John M. Mayer now stands, and when the new house on the hill was finished and his family moved in these two cottages were occupied by the plaster mill workers and their families, and the connecting passage way taken down. Hence the name 'Cottage Row.' These two cottages still stand there, one on the corner of Delaware Avenue and Cottage Row and the other, next door to it." Mr. Waters is a relative of the late General Sharpe. The General's former residence is the Annex of the Governor Clinton Hotel, the fine structure which was moved back to make room for the hotel.

A letter came from the sunny south which reads in part: "Albert Street in Kingston in the 13th ward was named Albert Street after my father, Albert Bower. He was the largest owner of the land on the east of Albert Street. I am his son and am retired. I am at Moosehaven. I get The Freeman here. I resided, when I was in Kingston in the 11th Ward on Boulevard for over three quarters of a century. This Albert Street formally was known as the Isthmus or old Middletown Road, it runs from Boulevard to South Wall Street and was traveled by stage coach in early times. It was the main road from Rosendale to Rondout and it was heavily traveled at that time. There was no Rosendale Road or Boulevard, as now so this Albert Street was the only street. This will cover the record of Albert Street as I know it. If I can help you on any old problem, don't be afraid to call on me. I am now going for 82 years old," signed Joseph Bower, Moosehaven, Orange Park, Fla.

All stories on streets are most welcome so that they can be compared and checked against each other. Mrs. Harford Shults,

Sr., 101 South Manor Avenue mentions the renaming of the present Franklin Street. Long ago it was called The Bowery because it was originally the lane that led to the bouweries or farm that Peter Stuyvesant had reserved for himself shortly after 1658 and to which he hoped to retire after his stint as director-general of the New Netherlands colony. In the 1890's came the popular song called "The Bowery." The youth of the time used to pick up the song and sing it loud on the Kingston Bowery, that the folks did not seem to like. It is said they petitioned for a change in name of the street, and perhaps they picked the name Franklin from Benjamin Franklin. No doubt other readers may remember something further on this and will write in or phone Harry Rigby, Jr.

Army Rejects Plan On Drum Assignment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Clarence E. Kilburn (R-NY) says the Army's refusal to consider a proposal that 1,500 military personnel be assigned permanently to Camp Drum does not close the issue.

Lt. Gen. B. M. Bryan, First Army commander, made the recommendation for the assignment. Kilburn was told the basis for the proposal was to reduce the number of temporary troops at Drum. The camp, in northern New York, is used for summer training of reserves.

The Army, in announcing its decision not to accept the Bryan proposal, told Kilburn:

"The overall mission of the Army, recent and proposed reductions in troop strength and a stringent budgetary target preclude the operation of installations on a year around basis."

Kilburn, of Malone, N. Y., said the situation was not closed. He said Bryan "must have had good reason for his plan to add the 1,500 men to the Camp Drum force."

Urges Jury Action On 'Bug' in Office

NEW YORK (AP)—Assemblyman Anthony P. Savarese Jr., has moved for grand jury action in the planting of a microphone in the Motormen's Benevolent Assn. office by Transit Authority police.

Savarese, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Wiretapping, said yesterday he will recommend that minutes of the investigation of the bugging of the MBA offices be given to Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan for possible grand jury action.

The agenda this year is heavy. The St. Lawrence Seaway will produce a large amount of the weight.

Boy, 9, Accidentally Slays Self With Rifle

HOOSICK FALLS (AP)—State police said nine-year-old Donald A. Schmigel shot and killed himself accidentally yesterday while showing his two brothers how to handle a rifle.

The boy had received a booklet for Christmas on the proper handling of firearms.

The death weapon was a .32-caliber special, troopers said.

Donald and his brothers, Richard, 10, and Gerald, 12, were playing in the living room while another brother, 4-year-old Frederick, slept.

The father, Frederick Schmigel, 40, a trucker, was at work and the mother, Carolyn, 32, was shopping, police said.

After the blast struck Donald in the chest, Richard telephoned a physician who found Donald dead.

Deer Eludes Pursuers

BUFFALO (AP)—A female deer that appeared on a Buffalo harbor breakwater yesterday has apparently won herself free of it.

She led five men, including Harbor-master Joseph Rousseau, a merry chase as they tried to capture her with a lasso and a tugboat.

The men, who think the deer swam to the breakwater across nearly two miles of lake from the Canadian side, wanted to return her, but she spurned their efforts.

She eluded pursuers on the breakwater and swam rings around the tug trying to corner her.

The men, chilled from the chase in frigid weather, said the animal can get back to Canada the way she came — on her own.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There are a few fortunate TV programs which continue year after year regardless of trends and ratings. The Bob Cummings show is one of these.

Like Ozzie and Harriet and Burns and Allen, Bob's show continues on its merry way without interruption. Next Tuesday he is laughing into his fifth year with the weekly gambol in which he plays a photographer with an eye for the galmor dolls.

Show Clever Combo

There are several reasons for the show's success. Foremost is the fact that Bob is one of the top flight comedians in the business. And the show is a clever combo of sex and comedy. Plus which Bob can benefit from the mistakes of his first venture, a ridiculous caper called "My Hero."

"After that show was dropped, I was as dead as you can possibly get in show business," he recalled. "I sat in my agent's office one day and heard a top producer tell him on the phone that nobody would buy me. Being out of work, I accepted the State Department's invitation to go on a goodwill mission to Argentina."

While he was down there, a top-flight comedy writer, Paul Henning, came up with the idea for a new show for Bob. The idea clicked, and overnight Bob was a hot star again.

"I learned some lessons from 'My Hero,'" he said. "Although the new show was sold in August, I wouldn't go on the air until January, when we had a comfortable backlog. We had gone right on TV with 'My Hero' and were constantly on a deadline, so he had to grab at every script that came along, good or bad."

No Aim at Kids

"I also resolved that we would not aim at the kid audience. Sure, it's easy to develop a following that way, but kids are the most fickle audience in the world. Once they drop you, you're finished forever."

"So we aimed at the adults. But strangely enough, we started to develop a strong kid following any way."

The Cummings show was pitted against Groucho Marx, since it was figured that Groucho attracted largely a mature audience. The reasoning turned out well, Bob said, and he corralled the young married and teen-age crowd. Also the youngsters, who are complaining in large numbers since the time has been moved to the late 9:30 hour on Tuesday.

Tight Operation

Bob remarked that a major reason for the success of the show is the tightness of the operation. Henning produces and writes. Bob directs and stars and Bob's wife, Mary, handles all the business matters as president of the company.

"So we don't have to go far to get decisions made," he said.

Saugerties Trims Wappingers Falls in DCSL, 75 to 63

Riozzi's 24 Paces Sawyers to First League Triumph

A tremendous balanced effort carried Saugerties High to its initial win in the DCSL last night. The homecoming Sawyers trimmed Wappingers Falls, 75-63, as four starters scored in double figures.

It was the third victory overall for Coach Bud Smith's legion and evened their season's record. Co-captain Eddie Riozzi whipped in 24 points to pace the triumph. Most of his buckets came on drives.

Naccarato Hits 17
Jack Naccarato contributed 17, co-captain and center Don Mornile 14 and Barry Wolven 11. Saugerties led throughout and only experienced one bad quarter—the second—when it hit for just nine points. The first period tally was 20-11 and at halftime, 29-25. Saugerties locked it up with a 46-38 barrage in the second half.

Bruce Stickler was outstanding for the Indians, scoring 21 points despite the handicap of a broken finger. Julie Pigliacampi chipped in with 18, all in the second half which kept Wappingers breathing. Jake Case added 14.

Second Wappingers Loss
The setback was the second in six games for Dave Beverly basketballers and first in the loop. Saugerties Jayvees snapped a five-game winning streak of the Fallsmen with a 57-47 triumph. Bobby Francello led Ed Decker matched Francello's output for Wappingers.

Tonight, the Sawyers journey to Boiceville to face Ontario in a non-league skirmish. The boxscore:

Second Wappingers Loss
The setback was the second in six games for Dave Beverly basketballers and first in the loop. Saugerties Jayvees snapped a five-game winning streak of the Fallsmen with a 57-47 triumph. Bobby Francello led Ed Decker matched Francello's output for Wappingers.

Miss. State '5' Eyes 9th Straight Against Auburn

The Associated Press

The mortality rate has been so high for the major unbeaten of college basketball the past five days that Mississippi State has good cause to worry about tonight's game with Auburn.

Not that the Maroons should lose, No, indeed. Babe McCarthy's lads already have taken care of Auburn once. That was in the final of the Birmingham Classic last month.

State now has compiled a record of 9 victories without a defeat. West Virginia, No. 1 in the country in this week's Associated Press poll, also has won 9 games and hasn't been beaten.

But look what's happened to the five main pretenders to the Mountaineers' throne.

Kansas State, Michigan State, Cincinnati and Maryland all topped Monday. Wilt the Silt Chamberlain's Kansas team fell Thursday. Wilt the Silt, of course, was indisposed but is expected back in action when the Jayhawks open defense of their Big Eight title next week.

Miss. State is rated No. 9 behind the whole crowd in the current rankings, and if it gets past Auburn again—the first score was 52-37—it's stock will rise.

Fingers Crossed
But McCarthy and Co. will have their fingers crossed when they step on the hardwood at State College, Miss.

Three other major conferences also begin operations today. The Big 10 (which has been in a merry scramble in non-league games with the have nois showing most the class) has a full schedule. The Southwest Conference also begins play as does the Ivy League.

The Pacific Coast Conference played its first league games last night with Southern California whipping Washington State, 67-65; UCLA halting Oregon, 64-58; Oregon State vanquishing California, 53-43, and Idaho tumbling Stanford, 67-59. Oregon State, now 9-1, withstood a late Cal rally in beating the defending PCC champs.

Southern Cal won in the very last second when sophomore Jim Hanan stole the ball and flipped in the winning basket.

Hawaii All-Stars
Pick in Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (U) — Coach Buck Shaw's Lulu All-Stars number six All Americans on their starting lineup but still are two-touchdown underdogs against the Hawaii All-Stars in tomorrow's Hula Bowl game.

That's because the Hawaiian team is fortified by 10 men from the professional National Football League. Quarterback Tobin Rote, who led the Detroit Lions to the NFL championship over Cleveland last week, will be at the helm.

A high scoring battle is anticipated for the 25,000 fans as the weatherman promises good weather for the kickoff.

If these ears didn't deceive us Wednesday night, Byrne Chevrolet could get stronger opposition from the Stewart Field Panthers than from George Stuetzle's star-studded Pine Plains Bombardiers in the Hudson Valley Basketball League pennant chase.

Stuetzle, who loathes MVP selectors, may be headed for serious family trouble with his Bombardiers. The elements are there—a high priced collegian (Ted Dwyer) and the rest of the team.

There was an air of apprehension and expectancy surrounding the Bombardiers just before their losing effort against Byrne Chevrolet New Year's night. Half of the ball club had arrived. Someone said Bob Lehner, who was Dwyer's teammate at Columbia, wouldn't show. The sweating out process set in only minutes before the Old Timers and Kendalls were finishing their prelim.

Finally, three other guys showed up, but Phil Spencer, the ex-Arlington star, wasn't among them. A brief discussion ensued between Coach Eddie Palladino and Stuetzle, the franchise owner. Disagreement between the basketball coach and the owner, who fancies himself an expert, are legendary in pro basketball. The running feud between owner Fred Zoeller and Coach Charlie Eckman of the Detroit Pistons of the NBA was the most recent example.

Stuetzle was thinking in terms of not offending anybody on the Bombardier roster. Palladino, the coach, wanted his five best players to start.

Stuetzle's anxiety is not misplaced. Spencer didn't show, as we mentioned earlier. Charlie Johnson was reportedly sick. Gary Mendez was present but it wouldn't be long and he'd be back at Hobart College. The volatile Bombardier pilot is going to need players later and couldn't afford to alienate anyone.

The symptoms were unmistakable. When a professional basketball team arrives at an arena with only half of its personnel present, it's a bad omen. Stuetzle pays Dwyer a handsome stipend, we suspect, somewhere in the 25 to 40 dollar per-game bracket. When one player is highly paid, it is only natural for the others to be disgruntled.

Neither Joe Benjamin nor Bill Van Aken, who worked a highly competent game, gave Stuetzle's avowed intentions to pull the club off the floor the slightest comfort. There were occasional catcalls from the audience but working a contest between two top-flight teams is never a tea party. But someday, somewhere, some referee may trigger the long threatened explosion by Stuetzle. If family trouble among the Bombardiers doesn't beat him to the punch.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Wiltwyck Country Club reported tremendous turnouts around the Christmas holiday. The winter tournament is under way, with "Lonesome George" Cosenza still the hardest of the species. . . Douglas Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Kerr of New Paltz, received a varsity football letter at Taft School, Watertown, Conn. . . Arthur Dede, head scout for the Brooklyn Dodgers, has resigned his position. He decided not to make the switch to the Pacific Coast and is reported in line for a job with the New York Yankees, as successor to the late Paul Krichell. . . Benny Friedman, athletic director and football coach at Brandeis College, listened as a couple of football men talked about the various coaches around the nation who were in trouble because of poor records. "It couldn't hurt me, this winning pressure business," Benny smiled. "I have been playing football only seven years. We've graduated only six classes which became interested in football. That means we don't have enough alumni around to organize and get on me."

Population to Govern

Majors Seen Approving Two Clubs in Largest Cities

NEW YORK (U) — The major leagues, at their joint session three weeks from today, are expected to approve recommendation to make any city with a two million population eligible to have two major league clubs.

This recommendation, along with a number of provisions, was included in a report to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick by his specially appointed four-man committee. The committee, consisting of two officials from each major league, was appointed last month.

The vote will be by leagues, not by clubs. In case of a deadlock, the commissioner will be empowered to cast the deciding vote. Frick indicated how he will vote when he said he was "very much in favor" of the committee's recommendations. It is a foregone conclusion how the National League will vote.

The NL, at the Colorado Springs meeting in December, sought to have the territory in New York but was opposed by the AL. Frick, who declared at the time he would have sided with the NL had the matter come to a vote, prevailed upon the two leagues to table a final vote until Jan. 25 meeting. It was then that he appointed his four-man committee.

At yesterday's 4½ hour session in Frick's office, the committee also recommended:

1. Any major league club desiring to transfer to an area which has reached the two-million standard must first obtain the consent of its league.

2. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

3. Such park shall not be less than five miles from the park of the existing club. This, however, shall not prohibit clubs occupying a single park, if circumstances warrant such joint use.

4. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

5. Such park shall not be less than five miles from the park of the existing club. This, however, shall not prohibit clubs occupying a single park, if circumstances warrant such joint use.

6. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

7. Such park shall not be less than five miles from the park of the existing club. This, however, shall not prohibit clubs occupying a single park, if circumstances warrant such joint use.

8. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

9. Such park shall not be less than five miles from the park of the existing club. This, however, shall not prohibit clubs occupying a single park, if circumstances warrant such joint use.

10. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

11. Such park shall not be less than five miles from the park of the existing club. This, however, shall not prohibit clubs occupying a single park, if circumstances warrant such joint use.

12. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

13. Such park shall not be less than five miles from the park of the existing club. This, however, shall not prohibit clubs occupying a single park, if circumstances warrant such joint use.

14. In obtaining this consent, the league must first determine that the club desiring to transfer shall have a park with a seating capacity and other standards acceptable to the league.

Marlboro Wins, 60-51, Behind Eckert and Fino

Rapidly improving Marlboro Central won a 60-51 non-league decision over Monroe-Woodbury last night at Marlboro.

It was the third victory against four losses for Joe Cash's crew and first over non-loop opposition. Marlboro had previously lost four straight outside the circuit.

Center Daryl Eckert and Fran Fino pitched in 21 and 19 respectively to lead the way. Eckert's total was his top effort of the season.

Hazekamp High
Dick Hazekamp led the sophomore-studded Crusaders with 14. Bill Daly made 11 and Pete Chase 10.

Marlboro sped to an early 17-7 lead and was never headed. It held the same margin at the intermission, 27-17, and then drew away with an 18-10 spurt in the third period.

Billy Viscardo threw in 17 and Henry Esnes 11 as the M-W Jayvees scored a 52-38 win. Brian White's 15 topped the losers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stutzman, 95 and 90, respectively, of Paulding R.D. 1, Ohio, say they were the oldest couple to vote in the 1956 presidential election. —Leslie E. Dunkin, South Bend, Ind.

Why We Say—GENTLEMAN

GOOD FAMILY: The word gentleman is presently applied to a man who displays good social conduct. However, the original meaning of the word was associated with family status at birth and not culture. Gentleman comes from the Latin "gens" which meant "of good family", therefore, by birth a man was or was not a ("gens-man"), gentleman.

Virtue carries its own reward and a mighty sad consolation. Ordinance No. 16 of Columbus, Mont., provides that "any person who shall not lift his hat to the Mayor as he passes him on the street, will be guilty of a misdemeanor."

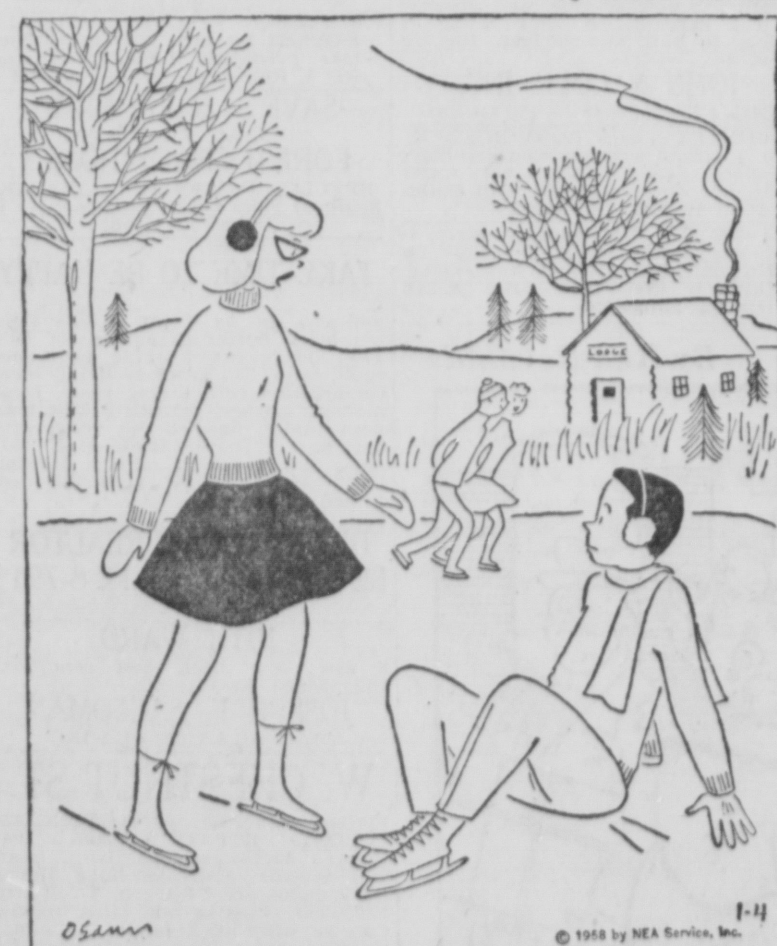

The dean of a college was investigating a charge made by some of the girls that the men who lived in the fraternity house next door forgot to lower their shades. The dean looked out of the sorority window and said: Dean—Why, I can't see into any of the fraternity house windows. Girls (in chorus)—Oh, yes, you can! All you have to do is to get up on a chair.

SINGERS, NOW HEAR THIS! A wood thrush can sing four notes at once and a blue jay can sing a major chord.

The crystal-gazer collected $25 for a reading and told the visitor: Crystal-gazer — This entitles you to ask two questions. Sitter (startled)—Isn't that a lot of money for only two questions?

TIZZY

By KATE OSANN

"If you had all the qualities I want in a boy, Joey, you probably wouldn't look at me!"

Crystal-gazer (gravely) — Yes, madam, it is. And now what is your second question?

Ralph—Next to a beautiful woman, what do you think is the most interesting thing in the whole world?

Clarence—When I'm next to a beautiful woman I never stop to consider.

Every child knows that the best things in life are free—with one box top.

Kate Drops Theme

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Kate Smith says she won't be singing "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" any more.

She announced last night she was dropping the tune as her theme song after almost 27 years. It will not be heard on her new radio show on the Mutual Broadcasting System that starts next Monday, she said.

Miss Smith said she has "simply grown tired of hearing the song."

Rosi Beats Busso on Split Nod

NEW YORK (AP)—By the margin of one point on the scoreboard of Referee Teddy Martin, Paolo Rosi today owns a split 10-round decision over Johnny Busso in a battle of lightweight contenders.

Although New York scores fights by rounds, it permits officials to resort to a four-point system in case the rounds come out even.

Martin gave Rosi two points for his third-round effort against Busso last night at Madison Square Garden and voted it even in rounds, 5-5. Each round winner received only one point with the exception of Rosi in the third round when he shook up his heavier opponent.

Judge Joe Agnello voted for Rosi 6-4 and Judge Jack Gordon saw Busso a 5-4-1 winner. The AP card had Busso on top 6-4.

Fifth Ranked

Rosi, fifth ranked lightweight, complained about the weight after the fight. He gave away 5 1/2 pounds to Busso who weighed 141 to Rosi's 135 1/2.

Rosi's handlers claimed they had a private agreement at 138 pounds although the official contract called for 140, give or take a pound.

"When I'm supposed to fight a lightweight, I want to fight a lightweight, not a 140-pounder," complained Rosi, a balding 29-year-old Italian who now lives in New York's Bronx.

"I'm the only contender who really is a lightweight. All the rest come in 140-139 around there."

As for the fight, Rosi thought he won by a comfortable margin although he was tense and wild after a four-round layoff. "I fight, he hold," explained Rosi.

Busso, a 23-year-old New Yorker, thought he won by a 6-4 score.

Barons Pressing Bears for Lead

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Barons apparently have no intentions of letting the Hershey Bears make a runaway of the American Hockey League.

With the Bears faltering now and then after a fast start, the Barons have closed within seven points. They picked up two last night in downing the Springfield Indians.

Meanwhile, the Rochester Americans moved into a tie with the Buffalo for fourth place by downing the Providence Reds 5-1. Four goals in the third period did the trick for the Amerks, who chalked up their sixth straight victory on home ice.

Three of Rochester's third-period tallies came in the space of a little more than two minutes late in the session. The deluxe started at 14:56 when Ab McDonald counted. Then in rapid succession Earl Balfour and Mike Nykoluk blinked the red light. Nykoluk's goal was his second of the game.

Quick's 67 Leads LA Golf Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Open golf tournament swings into its second day today with the scramble for the $35,000 prize money very much in doubt.

Smiley Quick, the squat ex-amateur star, was the pace setter yesterday. His 4-under-par 67 led the field of 151, but 38 golfers were bunched at 72 or less.

Muscular Frank Stranahan's early round of 68 was matched later in the day by Bob Rosburg, Napa, Calif.; young Stan Dudas of Philadelphia and that wily old veteran, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Louis.

Dartmouth Rehires Blackman as Coach

HANOVER, N. H. (AP)—Energetic Bob Blackman, will continue to plague rival Ivy League football teams for awhile as head coach at Dartmouth.

Athletic Director Robert A. (Red) Rolfe announced yesterday that the college had renewed its agreement with Blackman. Terms were not made public but mention was made of a substantial increase in salary.

Yale vs. Dartmouth Tonight in Ivy Opener

By The Associated Press

Defending champion Yale, back from a disastrous Christmas trip to the Pacific Coast and midwest, visits Dartmouth tonight as the Ivy League begins basketball operations.

Penn meets Princeton in part of a doubleheader in Philadelphia in the only other league game on the opening night card.

RPI Six Banking On Canadian Line To Capture Crown

TROY (AP)—Rensselaer Polytechnic will call on its potent, all-Canadian first line tonight to put aside national pride and help win RPI's own invitation round-robin hockey tournament.

To do so, the Engineers will have to trounce the University of New Brunswick in the final round of the tournament tonight. An RPI victory would keep the silver cup in Troy for the first time in the seven years the institute has sponsored the tourney.

Paul Midgall, Gary Kearns and Ron Palmer, who make up the Engineers' big scoring punch, collected 4 goals last night for a 6-4 victory over Yale. It gave RPI undisputed possession of first place at the end of the second round.

Brown Upset

In the first game of the night, wingman Dave Kelley of Brown netted four goals in a 6-0 upset of New Brunswick.

Midgall, the East's leading scorer, collected two goals and an assist, Kearns one goal and two assists, and Palmer a goal. Midgall and Palmer are from Toronto, Kearns from Peterborough, Ont.

Brown and Yale play in the second game tonight.

In the Brown-New Brunswick game, Kelley, a 5-foot-7 sophomore from Melrose, Mass., scored three markers in the second period and tallied another in the final frame.

In another game last night, Clarkson shut out American International 6-0 at Potsdam.

Parents, Teachers Urged to Join Local P-TA Units

An appeal by the Central Hudson District, New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers was made to all civic minded citizens, parents and teachers today to join local P-TA units in a concerted effort to improve educational facilities.

A statement from the district's publicity chairman, Hollis E. Harvey of Tillson follows:

"People in general poke good-natured puns at their fellowmen who make New Year's resolutions, and usually have cause for such action. Most of us fail to keep such resolutions. One resolution that should be made for this year and kept, is to aid the children in America in receiving the best possible education. This is not a job strictly for the educators, teachers or members of school boards. It is a responsibility that every parent, every citizen, should accept.

"Parents should undoubtedly accept the greatest share of such a responsibility. It is natural to expect that they would work the hardest to obtain not only a proper education, but the best education for their children. Many men and women put much time and talent into the school and education problems who do not have children, and these should be recognized for their great interest in such vital problems.

"While Russia's methods in obtaining results may not be tolerated by the free world, the fact remains that a amazing strides, especially in science, have been made by that country. We must be realistic about the future. Our children must have the right to live not only in a free country, but in one whose leadership is not questionable.

"In the past, when alarmed or angered, Americans have shown great leadership qualities and rallied to the cause, showing surprising results in a short period of time. Such results were accomplished due to many reasons; mainly that we are a free country. Thus we can overcome the education and school problems in a like manner.

"An appeal is directed to fathers, and to men who are civic-minded or take pride in their country and the strength of America. This problem may look gigantic, but it can be licked. True, schools are inadequate, teachers are scarce, too few students attend college, insufficient recognition is given to alert and mentally advanced youths, and the cost of educating our children soars higher each year. However, the problems are known, and can be tackled. The goal is known—the security of the future of the United States and its world leadership. That is what is at stake. Through education our leadership may be best assured. Since entering the age of Sputniks and the desire to conquer space, this country is going to have use for every man or woman who has leadership qualities.

"Fighting for the best in education for hundreds of thousands of school children, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, with branches all over the United States, has a definite place for you in your local unit of the P-TA. Join this group, learn how you can help, then act. The combined strength of individual units of the national congress can and does shape legislation and policies of the country in regards to the education of the youth of the country. Your part should be more than just that of a sideline witness—you are needed to help shape the destiny of our country.

Paper Boosts Price

AUBURN (AP)—The Auburn Citizen-Advertiser will cost seven cents beginning Monday instead of six.

Home delivery will cost subscribers 42 cents a week.

The Auburn Publishing Co. yesterday attributed the rise to increased operating expenses.

The paper raised its price from five to six cents two years ago.

Woman, 58, Admits Looting Mail Boxes

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A motherly gray-haired woman who serves as secretary-treasurer of the suburban Police Bowling Leagues, is accused of stealing a half ton of mail from letter boxes.

Police said Miss Doran King, 58, admitted yesterday that she had looted boxes in the Weequahic section of Newark for the past four months.

But postal inspectors and police said they found enough mail in her four-room apartment to fill 14 cartons, some of it dating back to 1956. Much of it was unopened.

Miss King said she could give no reason for her actions.

The kind-faced woman has been a familiar sight at Monday night bowling matches since the league was formed in 1951. The 36 teams in the loop include FBI and state police members.

CR Group Off To Good Start

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Civil Rights Commission was off to harmonious start today after reaching quick agreement on a list of lawyers who would be accepted for the key job of staff director.

Dr. John A. Hannah, the chairman, took the list to the White House late yesterday after the six member commission held its first meeting. The members took their oaths of office earlier in the day.

List Not Public

Hannah, who is president of Michigan State University, said he hoped the staff director could be named by President Eisenhower before the commission's next scheduled meeting on Jan. 10. The list of candidates was not made public.

The commission head also made a personal recommendation for a vice chairman, but he did not mention any names in talking to newsmen. It was expected, however, that one of the commission's southern members would be chosen for that post.

There were indications that Eisenhower will move swiftly to complete organization of the commission, possibly this weekend. At Gettysburg, Pa., where Eisenhower is spending a few days on his farm, informed sources said the President expected to pick a staff director, a vice chairman, or both, either today or tomorrow.

Like the commission members themselves, the staff director will be subject to Senate confirmation at the session of Congress opening Tuesday.

Unlike the commissioners, he will be a full time employee, at a salary of $22,500 a year, and will have charge of the commission's day-to-day activities in its broad inquiry into laws and practices relating to civil rights.

The members of the commission, three from the north and three from the south, apparently moved faster than Hannah had anticipated in drawing up a list of possible appointees as staff director.

Agree on Roster

The chairman said they agreed on a roster of several persons, all of them lawyers, to submit to Eisenhower. Hannah added that any one of them would be "acceptable to all the members of the commission."

Under the law, the commission is empowered to investigate sworn complaints of violations of voting rights because of race, color, religion or national origin. It also is authorized to make a general study of equal protection of the laws under existing federal statutes and policies.

The commissioners met with Eisenhower for about half an hour yesterday after being sworn in, and Hannah said the President assured them of his full cooperation.

Cancer Society Units of State Meet Next Week

The 10th annual cancer conference of the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society will be held January 12, 13 and 14 at the Hotel Syracuse in Syracuse.

This meeting will call into mutual parity the leadership of the volunteer field services of the American Cancer Society from the 54 counties which constitute the New York State Division.

Inaugurated 10 years ago by Mrs. Laurence Marble, New York State director of volunteers and education, and Alan Stevenson, executive director of the New York State Division, this annual conference has proved its value as a clearing house for lay and professional personnel and findings in the fight against cancer.

A medical panel will kickoff the session Sunday night, Jan. 12. Monday the program will feature the work of the lay service, and Tuesday morning, Jan. 14, the three-day session will terminate with a final medical panel presenting their report and observations on progress in the cancer field.
